GROWING WITH CHICCO

for travelling, exploring, eating, playing and dreaming. 2014 Collection.

Pursuing the happiness of children has always been our mission, because we believe that a happy child will grow up to be a happy person and that a happy person can make the world a better place.

This is why, from Chicco's point of view, happiness is all about the little things in life, simple gestures full of love and affection. Such as those that make a child happy, day after day, helping them to grow.

Chicco is consistent with its mission in everything it does. Its know-how and expertise are at the service of today's children and families to provide simple, innovative and contemporary solutions.

Our values:

Bonding

Chicco knows how to work alongside mothers and children because it is fully aware of how important the bond that develops and grows between them is and aims to offer solutions that support and facilitate a positive relationship.

Spontaneity

Chicco knows that it is thanks to spontaneity that children discover the world and this is why it aims to allow them to freely express themselves whatever the situation.

Simplicity

Chicco provides mothers and children with simple solutions to improve everyday life.

Creativity

Chicco gives children the freedom they need to express their imagination and enhance their desire to experiment. This is why it aspires to provide mothers and children with state-of-the-art solutions.

Positivity

Chicco knows how much a smile is worth, how important a serene and secure environment is for a baby. This is why it provides mothers and children with solutions that fill everyday life with moments of harmony and positivity.

Growth

Chicco knows that growth, for children, is a natural and instinctive strive towards the future. And also knows how important it is for their mothers to help them grow up happily. This is why it provides solutions that instil a sense of trust and security.

Accessibility

Everyone deserves a bit of happiness and Chicco knows that. This is why it designs products aimed at fulfilling the needs of all mothers and children.

Chicco's vast experience in the infant world has now been consolidated by a research facility, dedicated to increasing our knowledge of children from 0 to 3 years of age and their psycho-physical, emotional and social needs. The first few years are a vital period for the growth of all children, a period which is full of significant changes and physical and psychological needs, for them and their families.

Only by observing all these aspects very closely, and in particular the spontaneous behaviour of children, we are able to fully comprehend their actual needs.

This is why the Osservatorio collaborates with experts in the medical-scientific world, which is vital in order to keep up to date with the knowledge and progress made in the paediatric field, and to assess the scientific value of the proposed products; it communicates with the education facilities and constantly gathers suggestions from parents, those who have hands-on experience of what their child needs. The commitment of the Osservatorio is to gain as much knowledge as possible on the world of children, and use it to devise and develop specific solutions for each growth phase.

Know-how

Constant observation of children and the world they live in.

Scientificity

Collaboration with the medical world.

Experience

Ongoing dialogue with parents.

Responsibility

Because the happiness of children is a serious issue.

The first trips outdoors, first discoveries

Going for a walk is an important moment during the day of any child; the countless number of visual and auditory stimuli are important from a physical viewpoint and contribute to enhancing baby's cognitive and sensory development. This is why going out for a walk should become an enjoyable part of their daily routine; the weather conditions or fear of the cold should not deprive children of these beneficial stimuli: just use your common sense, organise yourself and use the most suitable equipment and accessories.

Suggestions for the ideal choice: strollers

Chicco's range of strollers is vast and diversified, specifically designed to meet the requirements of even the most demanding parents. The ideal stroller should be practical, easy to open and occupy a minimum amount of space when closed, but there are many designs with different characteristics to meet the more personal needs of each family.

You need to have a clear view of your requirements and lifestyle before choosing the best stroller for you; for example, if you live in the city you will need one that is agile and easy to handle, one that is fitted with a travel system, i.e. one that allows you to fasten the child car seat onto it, for a combined and extremely versatile use.

If the car boot is not that capacious, you should go for one that is ultra-compact when closed.

The age of your child is one of the first aspects to assess, as there are strollers approved for use by newborns and others that can only be used from 6 months onwards. The smaller the baby, the more padding the seat must have, along with a fully-reclining backrest.

Particular attention should be dedicated to the accessories that may be already fitted on the stroller and those which are optional and purchased separately; choose the ones that suit you best according to use and weather conditions.

Further to all these quality aspects, there are another two elements to consider which are no less important: the design and the colour you prefer, because no mum and dad should be forced to forego their look and style!

- The three hanging soft toys are designed for baby's first experience with toys and to stimulate his tactile, visual and hearing skills. Easily removable toy bar to give you extra room when placing your baby inside. Has a 3-point, fully adjustable waist harness with padding for baby's comfort. The rocker folds completely flat for storage or travel

Innovative SlideLine System: it allows the hanging toys to move anywhere along the arch to create new play options!

Removable and washable lining

Practical straps so you can carry the rocker around

The opinion of the Psychologist*:

The movement of the stimuli along the SlideLine is ideal for the child's sensorial, cognitive and psychomotor development, because it stimulates the visual memory as it accustoms the child to recognise and distinguish the position and sequence of hanging toys and it also helps in acquiring manual-ocular coordination (staring at an object and reaches out to grasp it).

Safety on the road.

As soon as a baby is born he is the perfect traveller! In fact, there are no particular problems concerning newborns travelling by car, as long as all the Highway Code rules and regulations are carefully followed, along with a certain amount of common sense. It takes just a bit of additional organising and patience to ensure babies are comfortable and at ease when out and about in the car.

In the car the most beautiful hug, is a safe hug

A child car seat in the car is the only way to truly protect children

Useful suggestions for the correct choice:

Why use a car seat.

Protecting your child is one of the many ways to say 'I love you'!
Using a child car seat is a simple and everyday loving gesture that must become as automatic as fastening his shoe laces.
Just a few simple precautions and a few rules when choosing and installing the child car seat correctly, to turn short and long trips in the car into dreamlike excursions!

Baby Car Seat Manufacturer Regulations.

All Companies manufacturing child safety seats must meet the requirements imposed by European Directive ECE R44 that defines the design, approval and manufacturing criteria.

Before being placed on the market, each product undergoes a special approval procedure by certified laboratories that guarantee consumers that the child car seat complies with the safety standards imposed by law. Every car seat manufactured and approved in accordance with this regulation carries an ECE certification label.

This orange label is a sort of identity card for child car seats and indicates its fundamental features. Before making a purchase, it is essential to check that the product carries this easily recognisable orange label, usually applied on the back or base of the child car seat.

Safety rules and regulations for every user.

The use of child car seats is mandatory as provided by the Highway Code (HC), but most of all it is a loving gesture you give to your child.

In all European countries, it is generally required by law that all passengers must use appropriate restraint systems when travelling by car: safety belts for adults and safety car seats for children.

UK law states that children from birth up until they are 1.35 m in height, must always be strapped in using a restraint system which is appropriate for their height and weight.

Safety of used car seats is not guaranteed.

The use of used child car seats is not recommended: they could, in fact be damaged or worn out, in a way that is not visible.

It is important that no child car seats involved in accidents continue to be used. Dynamic testing in certified laboratories that simulate road accidents have shown that certain parts of the child car seats, already subject to stress, may fail more easily.

Moreover, used child car seats often come without instruction manuals, a mandatory aspect to guarantee correct installation and use.

Pay attention to airbags.

Group 0 (up to 10 kg) and Group 0+ (up to 13 kg) infant car seats must be installed so the baby travels rear-facing. Warning !! The law prohibits the use of these infant car seats on seats fitted with enabled airbags. This is because, should the airbag be activated and inflate, this could cause serious and even fatal injury to your baby.

So, if you have to install a Group 0+ infant car seat on a vehicle seat fitted with an airbag, disable the airbag or contact the car manufacturer to disable it and only enable it again when the infant car seat is no longer in use.

How to choose the right safety car seat:

The choice of the child car seat must always be assessed according to the weight of the child.

The European regulation divides children's weights into "Mass Groups" i.e. weight ranges which correspond to specific car seat groups. Every car seat is designed, approved and produced according to this benchmark parameter.

The listed age Groups provide mere approximate benchmarks as the physical development of each child is subjective. In order to travel safely, it is always important to choose and use a car seat that is suited to the morphology of the child.

Specific Child Car Seats.

Specific child car seats refer to one Mass Group only.

They ensure the highest level of safety, comfort and functionality to children belonging to a certain weight range. They represent the optimal solution for everyday and frequent use (main car, long trips etc.). As they are specific for one Mass Group only, they can be used for a shorter length of time.

Multi-Group Seats.

Multi-Group child car seats, on the other hand, refer to two or more Mass Groups.

These seats represent a cost-effective choice because they cover two or more weight ranges and may be used for many years. The safety features they were designed for are guaranteed but, given its use for children of different ages and different body sizes, they are less compliant and, therefore, particularly suitable for sporadic use (for instance, the seats left in the cars of grandparents and babysitters).

Isofix system

It is the safest and easiest way to install a child car seat correctly, because it is not simply fastened to the seat, but it actually becomes an integral part of car chassis, reducing the forward rotation movement in case of frontal impact. This totally minimises the risk of incorrect installation, as the specific indicators confirm when it is fitted correctly, reducing the frequent errors that occur when fitting commonplace restraint systems.

The Isofix system has 3 anchor points:

- Two Isofix anchor points, located on the vehicle back seat - between the back rest and the vehicle seat to which the Isofix connectors are fastened.
- The third anchor point can be:
 - a support leg which is a system that rests on the floor of the vehicle that stabilises the child safety seat (Semi-Universal system* as it is compatible with a limited number of cars)
 - a top tether that is fastened to the rear of the vehicle back seat or to the boot depending on the vehicle in question (Universal System – as it is compatible for use in most cars on the market).

The legislation that regulates car manufacturing has ruled that, starting January 2011, all new cars must have built-in ISOFIX anchor points on the back seat to which the Isofix child safety seats can be fastened.

For further information on your child's safety in the car, visit the website <http://babycarsafety.chicco.com> You will find all practical advice on everything which is essential to consider when buying a child car seat, instruction on use, reference regulations and medical advice.

*read the car instruction manual to check for relative compatibility.

DIGITAL BABY MONITORS

Something tells me that Mummy & Daddy are watching me.

The tranquility of always seeing baby and listening without interference.

Sleep time is always a source of concern for parents.

It represents, especially during the first few months, a temporary form of "separation" from their baby, prompting them to run at the smallest noise to see him and reassure them that everything is fine.

Around 4 months baby can sleep alone in his bedroom and so parents have even more need to keep a watch on his sleep, his awakening, his tears and his play.

(By Osservatorio Chicco, Baby Research Centre.)

The new Chicco Baby Monitors line consists of 3 models developed to suit your needs with innovative features and digital communications. Thanks to the digital technology they ensure quality audio and video, and exclusivity of communication between parent and baby units. So you always feel close to your baby!

Guaranteed Privacy - continuous transmission, without the interference of other signals.

Zero interference - no interference from other audio-video equipment in the surrounding environment.

Wider Range of reception

Photo and video capture lets you keep those special moments, then playback on the parent unit anytime.

Good sleep during pregnancy

Sleeping well during pregnancy is essential.

During the last quarter, over 75% of women reports sleep disorders and the need to rest more frequently, even during the day.

One of the disorders that affect the quality and duration of sleep is “back ache” or lower back pain, particularly frequent between the 5th and 7th month, which affects over 50% of mothers-to-be. 25% of women sleep for a variable amount of time even after giving birth.

The use of a specific pillow helps pregnant women to prevent back pains, it favours the recommended lateral position, for a more peaceful and comfortable sleep.

Did you know that...

The position recommended by doctors and midwives during pregnancy is on one side, preferably the left with knees slightly bent. This reduces swelling and water retention, it alleviates pressure on the vena cava, it reduces the creation of piles, it reduces the feeling of nausea and allows the placenta to transport nourishment from mum to baby.

The best support for bonding breastfeeding

The 5 golden rules to breastfeed your child in the best possible way.

- 1) It simplifies affinity and contact between you and your child from the very first moments of life. It can influence the production of milk and therefore the best possible success in terms of breastfeeding.
- 2) It encourages breastfeeding every time your baby needs it. Day after day you will get to know your baby more and more in order to distinguish when he cries because he wants to be picked up, cuddled or changed from when he is hungry. In this case you are not fussing over him but you are feeding him!
- 3) When you breastfeed make sure that you are in a comfortable and convenient position! As breastfeeding requires a lot of time and physical commitment by the mum, help yourself with a breastfeeding cushion that supports the baby without you having to bend your neck and back forwards or making excessive efforts with your arms.
- 4) Attach the baby correctly to your breast: well supported and facing your stomach (stomach against stomach) with his mouth wide open in order to envelop the breast as much as possible (chin against breast, nose free). Correct suction prevents the baby from swallowing air that may cause disturbance due to gassy colic.
- 5) It is very important that you, the mum, are not alone during this important moment full of changes and emotions: do not hesitate to ask for help from your midwife where you gave birth, in the consultancy centres of your area!

The Osservatorio Chicco recommends the use of Boppy.

Assessed by the Osservatorio Chicco together with midwives and mums. The tests carried out have confirmed the level of appreciation for Boppy and its characteristics in terms of shape, padding and washing.

- 99% of midwives consider the nursing pillow as a precious help for mums.
- 92% suggest the use of a specific shape pillow like Boppy.
- 85% recommend the use of a completely washable pillow.*

* Survey undertaken by the Chicco Osservatorio and Art. The Resource Alliance, in 2012, with a sample of more than 200 Italian midwives.
